Lynn.Jost: "What is an Anabaptist Christian?" Palmer Becker: Jesus is the center of our faith; community is the center of our life; reconciliation is the center of our work (ministry/mission).

Lynn.Jost: You can download "What is An Anabaptist Christian?" <https://www.mennonitemission.net/Downloads/DL.MissioDei18.E.pdf>

Neighborhood Church: I would also suggest Tim Elmore's latest, Generation Z Unfiltered.

Lynn.Jost: March 1, 2019 Christian Leader Learning from the ,Dones, and Nones,

What can those who are done with church, but not with spirituality, teach us?

Darren Duerksen and John Richardson

Dan Strutz: If we are to believe that the church is a "believers church" -- I assume that for that it is a believer who "belongs" to the church (I could be misunderstanding that). So, when we say "belonging" what are they belonging to? Can we speak to: is there a line before "belonging" (ie welcome here) to "belonging" (a member of the body)?

Mark Isaac: In my son's undergrad research "From Deep Faith to Deep Apostacy" he found that the biggest loss "nones" and "dones" feel in leaving their faith is community. That's a nod to our Anabaptist perspective, and good reason for putting "belong" before "believe/behave".

Mark Isaac: Also, "Faith No More: Why People Reject Religion" by Phil Zuckerman, Oxford 2012, is a resource full of stories from those who left faith.

John Richardson: Mark- so appreciate your vulnerability and input

Chris Bennett: It's the difference between a bounded set and a centered set way of viewing the church

Lynn.Jost: Paul Hiebert is the missiologist who talked about open and bounded sets

Kyle Goings: What were the two books Jamie shared about stories again?

Jamie Mack: Shaped by the Story by Michael Novelli

. Also...Enter the Story: 7 Experiences to Unlock the Bible for your Students by Michael Novelli.

Jamie Mack: Both books offer great creative ideas (and CD resource) to use with students (and adapt creatively to young adults)

Lynn.Jost: Thanks, Jamie!

Dan Strutz: I appreciate some of the thoughts. Just aiming to see if there are any boundaries for those that have not believed yet.

Dereje/ Avenue Denver : I am grateful for the webinar. I am benefiting a lot for my congregation that is completely either Millennial or Gen-z

Mark Isaac: Thankfully it looks like Palmer still lives!

Stephen: What about a webinar around those 3 things? (Anabaptist: Jesus is the center of our faith; community is the center of our life; reconciliation is the center of our work)

Stephen: Not the same as being face to face, but would generate interest, for sure!

Dinagonzalezpina: yes, I would especially interested in the work of reconciliation in our multicultural family

Lynn.Jost: Lori Taylor will be sending a recording link of this; feel free to share with others
